

CSL-based scholarly classification: task construction and audit protocol

The figure separates data construction, task contrast, and the fixed evidence protocol used for balance-aware evaluation.

Purpose: test whether a tail-aware training objective improves scholarly metadata classification without changing inference-time deployment.